

Residential Construction Liens: Filing and Practice Strategies for Prosecution and Defense

Greenbaum partner Steven Nudelman will be on the faculty for the seminar "Residential Construction Liens: Filing and Practice Strategies for Prosecution and Defense," to be presented by the New Jersey Institute for Continuing Legal Education on Monday, March 23, 2020 from 9:00am - 12:15pm at the New Jersey Law Center. The program will be presented by NJICLE in cooperation with the Construction Law and Real Property, Tax and Estate Law sections of the New Jersey State Bar Association.

Since the New Jersey Construction Lien Law was amended in 1994, residential construction liens have continued to gain prominence in real estate projects ranging from small single-family homes to condominium developments with hundreds of units. This program will review the special requirements of the lien law for residential projects in the State of New Jersey. In addition to looking at the evolution of the statute and the key differences between commercial and residential liens, the speakers will focus on the nuts and bolts of defending against residential construction liens.

Issues to be covered include:

Mr. Nudelman is a partner in the firm's Litigation Department and a member of the Construction Practice Group. Concentrating his practice in construction law, he has defended and asserted claims on behalf of owners, developers, condominium associations, general contractors, design professionals, subcontractors, vendors and sureties involved in public and private construction projects throughout the New Jersey and New York metropolitan area. Mr. Nudelman is a Fellow of the Construction Lawyers Society of America and is co-Vice Chair of the NJSBA Construction Law Section.
